SUMMARY

Senior UX content strategist with 15+ years in regulated industries — financial services and healthcare — building content systems that operate at enterprise scale. Deep background in information architecture, governance, voice and standards architecture, and cross-functional delivery. Currently extending that work into AI-augmented content systems: tooling, governance frameworks, and standards infrastructure that functions across both human and AI execution contexts.

EXPERIENCE

Senior Manager, UX Content Strategy March 2021 – Present

Charles Schwab · San Francisco, CA

Content lead for UX Creative Direction, driving content systems work across the design system, AI governance, and product delivery.

- Built and scaled the Search Answer Widget ecosystem from ~50 to 557 experiences across 101 topic areas — delivered six weeks ahead of schedule with 605K user interactions by year end.
- Designed and executed an AI-assisted editorial workflow to rebuild Schwab's digital retail talent architecture — a competency framework across product, design, content, and accessibility — approved at the C-suite and embedded in the 2026 performance review cycle.
- Migrated Schwab's UX writing guide from a fragmented SharePoint document into the Everest design system, driving a 10x increase in monthly visits and establishing the first creative direction content in the design system.
- Developed a dual-read standards layer: documentation structured to be usable by practitioners and executable by AI tools — closing the gap between how standards are written and how they're applied.
- Facilitated a cross-team AI content governance salon across UX, Legal, and Product — mapping where AI-generated content creates risk and where standards need to be machine-readable.
- Owned UX content strategy for Schwab's mobile app across trading, banking, and account management; led content for a net-new bank lending product end-to-end.
- Managed and mentored four contract and FTE content strategists.

- Brokered a Brand vs. SEO conflict during a major voice overhaul and authored a digital writing guide that resolved the tension — the governing content standard for the organization going forward.
